

World`s #1 Trackchaser at Edelweiss Speedway this Friday night

By Martin Bélanger

Cantley, PQ – Wednesday August 29, 2007 – It is with great pleasure that I have learned this morning that the #1 trackchaser in the world, Randy Lewis from San Clemente, California will make a stop at Edelweiss Speedway this Friday on S.L.B.L Construction.

For the people who do not know M. Lewis, he is the person who visited the most racetracks in the worlds with 1261 different tracks as of today. There are six trackchasers in the world who have seen racing at more than 1,000 tracks.

In 2006, Randy Lewis traveled more than 334,000 km to visit tracks in 37 different United States along with 2 Canadian provinces and also England and New Zealand. With all this travelling, he took the worldwide lead in trackchasing. You can see the official trackchaser on the website called www.trackchaser.net.

Edelweiss Speedway will be # 1262 on his list and it is with great honour that we welcome M.Lewis to Edelweiss.
